Glory Days Grill Breaks Ground at Potomac Marketplace

Fairfax, VA - Glory Days Grill, a regional restaurant chain, has started construction on its nineteenth restaurant at Potomac Marketplace, located on Route 9 in Ranson, West Virginia. The Ranson location is expected to open in spring 2007.

Glory Days Grill is an American grill and bar that appeals to all age groups and interests. Their menu features a variety of high quality, freshly prepared menu items including zesty BBQ ribs, well-seasoned steaks, grilled chicken, delicious pasta, fresh grilled seafood and crisp, made-to-order salads. Guests can enjoy the latest sports, news and entertainment on one of 22+ televisions, and each booth and table is equipped with a private speaker system. This family-friendly restaurant also has an extensive children's menu, unique specialty drinks for kids and cartoon programming.

Jeff Newman, Richard Danker and Robert Garner founded Glory Days Grill in 1996. The Ranson, WV location will mark the nineteenth restaurant in the Glory Days Grill system, which includes 16 corporate owned and operated locations and 2 franchised locations.

Glory Days Grill is the newest merchant to break ground at Potomac Marketplace, a 280,000 square foot center anchored by Weis, Home Depot, Petco and soon Kohl's, coming in spring 2007.
